

Lindy Gay Lewandowski

Associate Director of Business Development
Worcester Polytechnic Institute

Lindy Gay Lewandowski is the Associate Director of Business Development at Worcester Polytechnic Institute's division of Corporate and Professional Education. In this role she services companies such as Raytheon, BAE Systems, General Dynamics, National Grid and over 25 other companies that have entered into a partnership with WPI to address their business and educational objectives through both customized training vehicles as well as the delivery of fully fledged graduate programs on their company sites.

Lindy has had a long, and exciting career involved with a myriad of different disciplines but always a core interest in customer service and business development. Companies in this area from Digital Equipment Corporation to Aspect Communications have been Lindy's interest but she has had a lifelong interest in special needs children and worked for a number of years in this field with young autistic children.
